Item 6.

Over generations, trade and transport ventures have been twined to boost African economies. Africa has internally and externally expressed rapid trade within countries themselves to the extent of forming economic integrations like COMESA, PTA with key objectives like marketing, transporting and distribution of trade items final market overseas. However, transport seems to be limiting the delivery of goods to local and foreign markets. The concerned governments have come in to address the challenges by organizing a conference where you are expected to represent the youth.
